Egg Food Recipe For Breeding Pairs and Babies

5 lbs. Egg food Abba 92 & Abba 97 2 1/2 lbs. each

18 boiled eggs (boil for 20 minutes) peel and blend in food processor

1 lb. carrots (finely blended)

2 broccoli crowns (finely blended)

5 apples (cored and blended)

2 cups bee pollen (bulkfoods.com)

3 tbl. Abba DTS2000 (for E-coli prevention from abbaseed.com)

3 tsp. Probiotics Avi-Culture (nationalbirddesigns.com) Walmart also carries it.

3 tsp. Breeders Blend (morningbirdproducts.com)

Mix well.

Refrigerate the amount you will use in 3 days and freeze the rest in 3 day size container amounts. Shake it well each time you use the daily amount to keep bacteria from forming.

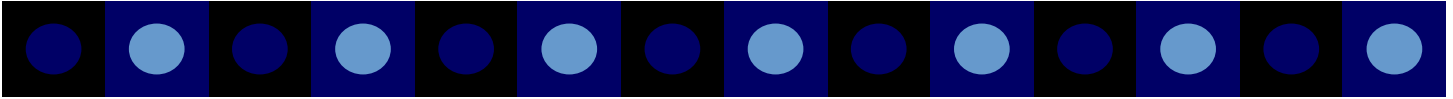

I begin feeding this about a month before breeding season and continue until every baby is eating well on its own. Early June usually. Add a bit of greens three times a week. I use chickweed and lettuce that I grow. Thereafter, I continue to feed the dry egg food along with a canary seed mix, song food, herb salad, and minerals. This formula has been very successful for me for 35 years so I hope that you have a great breeding season and many more to come.

Lisa's Egg Food Recipe

2 cups of Commercial egg food

1 pan of fresh cooked corn bread (greens peas and white corn added)

2 TBS. Ferti - Cal (Avio Med product) www.jedds.com

1 tsp poppy seed (good for sour stomach for adult birds and babies)

1 TBS. coconut oil (coconut oil is a natural fungicide & helps keep babies fat. Texas is humid)

1 apple blended

1/4 cup cooked hulled organic buckwheat (bulkfoods.com) I buy it at a greek restaurant that sells products!

1/4 cup cooked quinoa

1 tsp of Nekton MSA

Break the cornbread up and blend well. I also add fresh frozen peas to the mix and then serve. This last a couple of days and then make again. I have used this recipe for years and years with my parrots and canaries. I have changed it using different ingredients but mostly has stayed the same. Sometimes I use Teff seeds in the mix. Teff just gives the birds good over all health. I add it to my 25 lb. seed mix. I have heard that it is good for coccidia.

This is the time to begin conditioning your birds for the breeding season. Supplements, calcium and minerals, good food and greens. One very important thing to remember, in the case of calcium (and some vitamins), a lot is not better. Too much calcium can impose a hardship on birds kidneys causing serious health issues. They also need Vitamin D3 to utilize the calcium they receive in their diet. Also, check your light sources to be sure you are using full spectrum bulbs and that they are not in need of replacement. They may still be lighting the area, but after a period of time, are no longer emitting the beneficial spectrum your birds need to stay healthy. I change out 1 bulb of the 2 bulb fixtures once a year. That way they are getting good healthy light.
